SELECTED PRESIDENTIAL PAPERS
compiled by Bill Page
1 March 2007

Notes

1. Materials held in the Evans Library are scattered: scholars may need to consult official documents, commercially published works, microforms and newspaper or periodical articles.

2. Many materials are only available in the original manuscripts, in Washington or elsewhere.

3. Some materials are classified, or were classified at the time other materials were published.

4. Many documents have disappeared over time, leaving gaps in the record.

6. Information is often distributed, or policies decided, by persons other than the President.

7. Pre and Post Administration materials, including campaign publications, may be informative, but hard to access.

8. The years from 1923 to 1929 present special problems.

9. Vice-Presidential materials are often hard to find.

10. Much of this material is poorly indexed. Older material may not consider contemporary issues (e.g., "women's rights," "environmental policies," etc.)
PRESIDENTIAL PAPERS

The Library has copies of the papers of many Presidents in book form or in microform. Contents vary for each set, but typical materials included are drafts of speeches, diaries, scrapbooks, copies of incoming and outgoing letters, and similar materials. Some sets include not only materials written during the President's term of office, but also earlier and later documents. Some sets reproduce printed or manuscript reports from federal agencies. Consult the appropriate index for more details about the contents of each set.

The Library of Congress houses manuscript collections for most Presidents from George Washington through Calvin Coolidge, with the notable exception of a few Presidents, including Rutherford B. Hayes. Papers in the sets of Presidential papers filmed by the Library of Congress are usually arranged first by type of manuscript and then in chronological order.

Beginning with Herbert Hoover, the papers of the Presidents have been housed in special Presidential libraries. Materials in those libraries have been microfilmed on a far more selective basis than were the papers of earlier Presidents.

GENERAL SOURCES

CIS Index to Presidential Executive Orders & Proclamations: Part II: Mar. 4, 1921 to Dec. 31, 1983: Warren Harding to Ronald Reagan. Evans Ref Z / 1249 / P7 / C47 / 1986. Although this set provides excellent subject access, it can be frustrating to use, since sources for executive orders and proclamations may be unclear.

Code of Federal Regulations: Title 3: The President. Documents: shelved before the CFR at Evans Ref Docs AE 2.106/3:. Covers 1936+. These volumes compile Presidential orders, proclamations, etc. issued each year.

Codification of Presidential Proclamations and Executive Orders. Covers 1945-1989. Evans Ref Docs AE 2.113:.

Federal Register. Evans Ref AE 2.106 (paper; older copies on microfilm in Documents collection). Since 1936, most executive orders have been published here.

Presidential Executive Orders, Numbered 1-8030 (1862-1938). Evans Ref Z / 6455 / A4 / H5; also as Fiche Z / 6455 / A4 / H5 Microtext. This is an index only.

Public Papers of the President (Evans Ref GS 4.113:) & Weekly Compilation of Presidential Documents (Evans Ref GS 4.114:). Contain many executive orders, beginning with Presidents Hoover and Truman, and continuing to the present.

Statutes at Large. More recent volumes in paper copy (Evans Ref Docs AE 2.111:) and older copies on microfiche in Documents (AE 2.111:). Older volumes include many (but not all) executive orders.

United States Code (Evans Ref Y 1.2/5:) and United States Code Annotated (Evans Ref KF / 62 / 1927 / W45) cite (and sometimes include) selected executive orders.

Presidential Determinations and Similar Works

Over time, many different series of Presidential documents have been issued. These include series such as National Security Defense Directives (NSDD), Presidential Decision Directives (PDD), Presidential Directives (PD), etc. Although some such orders appear in the Federal Register or in the Weekly Compilation of Presidential Documents, many of them are not made public at the time they are promulgated. Some previously classified orders appear in the microfilm collections of documents from the National Security Council.
